

TOS-US and TSA Team Up

By Ananya Sri Ram Rajan

Peace Garden

Many people know the Theosophical Society emphasizes the three pillars of study, meditation, and service as a path to our spiritual evolution. In many lodges and study centres, service tends to either not be discussed or may be done, but not mentioned in the work of the centre. As a way to highlight the importance of this “quiet” pillar, the Theosophical of Order in the USA (TOS-US) and the Theosophical Society in America (TSA) teamed up to offer half a day of service to the participants of the TSA summer convention.

Participants were offered four different service projects to choose from:

- Weeding in the Peace Garden
- Packing groceries at the Humanitarian Service Project (a nearby facility)
- Participating in a world healing meditation
- Or putting together packets of new socks and underwear for the homeless (items needed but rarely offered at homeless shelters).

The projects allowed the enthusiastic participants to get to know one another during the summer convention, while contributing to a worthy cause. Many agreed that the idea inspired them to think of a project they could do in their own lodge or study centre.

We'd like to thank all those who took part and brought attention to this important pillar of theosophy

Putting together packets of new socks and underwear for the homeless

Packing groceries at the Humanitarian Service Project (a nearby facility)