

Judge Resources found in the Member Dashboard

This week let's take a look at another situation where an arrow is considered not to have been shot. World Archery Rules 12.5. says, "Under no circumstances may an arrow be re-shot." 12.5.1 clarifies situations where an arrow is considered not shot. Read the rule and refer to the guidebook for this week's case study.

If you missed it last week, check out the recorded webinar with International Judge Megan Tierney and Continental Judge Andy Neville on Para archery rules.

Resource 1:

World Archery Rules Book 3 Chapter 12 - Shooting and Conduct

Resource 2:

World Archery Judges' Guidebook page 51

Resource 3:

Para Archery for Judges Webinar - Megan Tierney and Andy Neville

This Week's Case Study:

During the last end of the 1/4 final round in an elimination match, the archers are shooting on their own targets. Archer A's target face becomes loose in the wind and folds over just as Archer A was releasing their last arrow and the movement caused Archer A to miss the scoring zone. You witness this and are serving as a line judge. Archer A requests to be able to shoot another arrow. To make things more complicated Archer B realizes that they have beat Archer A because of the miss on the last arrow. What do you do?

Last Week's Case Study

You are judging at a national event and during equipment inspection an athlete who is registered in the Recurve Open Division has a stool they want to use while shooting. During the inspection you ask the archer for their current classification card, which they do not have. The archer explains that they have not been classified before. Can the archer shoot in the Recurve Open Division? And can the archer use the stool when shooting?

Answer: No, the archer cannot shoot in the para division without a current national classification. The archer may however, use the chair without the classification card to shoot in the able-body recurve division.