

Resources for Coaches found in the Member Dashboard

For coaches, this week let's take a look at our leadership pillar. Right now, it is more important than ever to model excellent leadership traits to your athletes, coaches, and even our families. This week's At Home series provides coaches with a few top resources from the Leadership> Ability to Lead competency. The first video is recorded from the 2019 National Symposium and features Coach Adam Krikorian, the U.S. Women's Water Polo Coach. In this video Coach Krikorian shares his experiences coaching and how he has improved as a coach and leader from those experiences. Although Coach Krikorian is a water polo coach, there is a lot of application to archery.

I also recommend watching this short video clip with Coach John Wooden who has been called the greatest coach of the 20th Century. In this video Coach Wooden shares his viewpoints on character.

Leadership> Ability to Lead

Resource 1:

Adam Krikorian - A Journey of Dreams, Reflection and Growth

Resource 2:

John Wooden - The difference between winning and succeeding