

AIL Presents

SHARE YOUR PASSION

Workshop

Have you ever considered sharing a topic you're passionate about with an appreciative, engaged, and curious audience?

Join a group of seasoned AIL study leaders for a free, conversational workshop designed to help you explore how to turn your interests into a one-time presentation or even a multi-session course.

We'll offer a welcoming overview of how AIL works, highlight the wide range of courses that have been offered, and share insights from our own experiences as Study Leaders. We'll also talk about what makes a course meaningful for participants — and the many rewards of leading, from building community and fostering connections to deepening your own lifelong learning.

Bring your questions, your ideas, and your curiosity. Whether you're considering becoming a Study Leader, or simply wondering if your passion could inspire others, this session is a great place to begin.
