Our first N scale RDC production run focused on the RDC-1, which was built with coach seating throughout. The RDC-2 and RDC-3 versions include compartments for baggage and/or mail. The nifty N scale RDC-2 and RDC-3 models will be produced in both Phase 1 and 2 variations. These "railfan" terms were never actually used by Budd, but they neatly describe the major differences between the early style of RDCs delivered between 1949 and 1956 and the "new look" RDCs built between 1956 and 1962.

The Rapido N scale RDC is designed from the ground up based on the success of our RDC-1, as well as feedback from the N scale community on what they look for in a model. These units feature a hidden drive system and exceptional interior detailing, allowing for maximum performance and realism!

The N Scale RDC-2 and RDC-3 Railcars Feature:

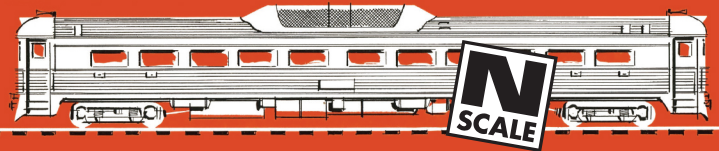

- Designed from original blueprints and field measurements
- Accurate Phase 1 and Phase 2 body details
- Both fabricated and cast trucks, as appropriate
- Single-motor, all-wheel drive for unparalleled reliability
- All-wheel electrical pickup
- Directional headlights and red marker lights
- Flicker-free interior lighting
- Tinted windows and fully detailed interiors
- Factory-installed couplers mounted at the correct height
- MoPower capacitor system for uninterrupted DCC power
- DC/Silent (DCC Ready) or DC/DCC/Sound (ESU LokSound)
- Suggested minimum radius: 12.5"
