◆ WHMIS Train the Trainer

Have one of your staff members provide WHMIS training in your municipality. AMHSA will provide training certificates after the roster of participants has been submitted.

WHMIS legislation requires that employers provide training to all employees who work with or are in proximity to a controlled product. This course provides training to certify a participant who feels comfortable training others in the workplace. Course includes classroom instruction, group discussions, exercises, video, and an exam.

Recommended for managers, supervisors and workers selected as WHMIS trainers. Knowledge of adult training concepts and experience as a trainer would be beneficial as this course does not cover trainer development topics such as adult learning instructional techniques, etc.
