

UPDATE: ALFONSO "BANSHEE" GIRALDES

June 1, 2019

Alfonso "Banshee" Giraldes has been restricted from air travel and will not be permitted to attend NOVA Open 2019. Join us in wishing him a full recovery which sees him back in the saddle again soon. There is good news regarding seminars: His partner, David "Basilisk" Mommel, who was slated to co-teach with Banshee on this trip in the first place, is still attending. Basilisk will teach the existing seminars - albeit with a few changes which we are very excited about. The 2-day, pre-con, hands-on workshop will now focus on the Tabletop Wargamer! On Monday, David will teach students the basics of color theory and guide them in designing a personal scheme for their miniatures. On Tuesday, David he will finish the workshop teaching how to design and paint freehand banners. "Introduction to Color Theory & Application on Scheme Designing," now available at our store, is newly priced at $150.

Basilisk was hand-picked by Banshee to partner with him at "Banshee Miniature Art Academy," one of the most successful patrons in this genre. Basilisk runs a successful commission studio, The Chromatic Circle, and is considered by Banshee to be one of his best students, and among the elite when it comes to wargame painting.

Two Sessions Per Day: 9:00am-Noon; 1:00pm-4:00pm
