

The requirements for hosting a foreign exchange student are straightforward: a primarily English-speaking environment, a bed to sleep in (a shared room with a sibling of the same gender is fine), a place to study (a common area such as a living room counts), three meals a day and snacks, and a window into American life.