LOOKING FOR WOMEN BUILDERS!

We are now recruiting women for our 35-member team participating in the Habitat for Humanity's Women+ Build on Tuesday, Sept. 20. The community-wide build from Sept. 9-24 will construct the last two homes for local families in Habitat's Trail View neighborhood off the B-Line near Rogers and 11th streets.

Our team this year, headed by co-leaders Barb Berggoetz, Abby Gitlitz and Anne Brahaum, is bringing together women from UU and the Bloomington Creative Glass Center and friends who'd like to join.

Our team will be installing siding and indoor trim and painting from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. We already have 13 members, so if you are interested please register and set up your fundraising page soon at https://classy.org/team/430670. To build, women need donate and/or fundraise a minimum of $300 by Aug. 26. No building experience is necessary. Crew leaders will give instructions to builders, who can attend free skills workshops before the build.

This year, Habitat added + to the Women+ Build name to ensure all underrepresented individuals, including trans women, trans men and those who are non-binary, gender non-conforming and may identify in other ways, feel truly welcome to participate. Please join us!

If you want to support our team, we welcome donations of any amount to help builders reach their $300 goal. Please contact Barb Berggoetz at barbberg@bluemarble.net, if you'd like to contribute. If you have questions about the build or our team, contact Barb, or Abby Gitlitz at agitlitz@hotmail.com.
