

Study Purpose

Caregivers experience significant challenges while caring for a loved one going through the hematopoietic cell transplant (HCT) process. The journey can often be long and unpredictable, and caregivers are thrust into this role without much training. The purpose of this study is to survey caregivers about their caregiving needs so that we may better understand how best we can support them before, during, and after the transplant procedure. The goal of this study is to gather enough information that may help us design and develop an effective intervention specifically for caregivers of patients (loved ones) going through the HCT process.

Who can participate

We are seeking Caregivers (e.g., spouses, children, parents, grandparents, friends, neighbors) 18 years and older who provided or currently are providing care for a loved one going through an allogeneic (related or unrelated donor) hematopoietic cell transplant. While we are seeking caregivers of patients within the first year of their transplant, we welcome all caregivers to participate in this survey. We value your input!

What is involved

This is a one-time survey that can be completed on a computer desktop, laptop, or mobile device, such as a phone. An internet connection is needed.

Time Commitment

The survey has a total time commitment of 15-minutes.

Compensation

You will receive a $20 visa card upon completion of the survey.
