I had so much in me from the abuse that I needed God to heal me and forgiveness is so powerful. I needed a voice there is so much freedom now and joy. I am a changed person through Jesus God has transformed me and I know who my identity in Christ is now. I am just amazed with this organization and all the leaders were incredible. Angela was amazing with all her knowledge with this subject and has such a sweet spirit. I love how she is helping people come into the light. I am blessed to be a part of the voice today family.

...She is 12 now and, because I went through what she had gone through I knew the importance of being free. On our way back home after the retreat, she said to me that something happen to her, but she can't really explain it. She said that when she gets around boys or older man, she feels funny. She becomes a little uncomfortable but at the same time drawing to them. She said at the retreat she went up to get something to eat and notice she was standing by the Pastor a male, and it didn't bother her. She said it was OK I didn't feel that feeling. Thank you Jesus. Angelia Williams and Voice of Today volunteers for doing what God called you to do, my daughter is Free.

Voice Today as a community has been profound, on my healing journey. I've had the privilege to attend two retreats, and each time God, showed me something new, allowing yet another piece of my part of me to heal. Trauma can be complicated to understand, yet the staff of voice today have done a great job of unpacking the complicated themes, allowing group and retreat members to understand the impact of sexual abuse has on our minds and hearts and provide resources to help heal that impact. Healing for me has not been an overnight process, nor has it been linear, however voice today as a community, has been a place of rest, retreat and a place to refocus regardless of where I've been in my healing journey. I have not met new friends; but rather, my new family.

I went to the Voice of Peace retreat in 2015. I came in as one person but left as another person. I felt so loved, accepted, and safe. I have only experience that one other time in my life. They loved on me and pour into me the person I am created to be not the person I could see myself to be. I was so hopeless, broken, distant, and had no voice. They help me to find my VOICE that I always had but my voice got silence through the years of abuse and hurt. The Voice Today staff and mentors have seriously change my life.

Since I have been home from the retreat I have seen God continually bring healing, closer, and restored relationship in my life. God has brought healing in my relationship with my mom. Two years ago, if you ask who am I or what are some of your qualities that you love about yourself. I could not name any of them not one. I no longer blame myself for the abuse that happen to me as a child. I am now advocate for sexual abuse and domestic violence.

I attended The Voice Retreat (9/20/13-9/22/13) and it was AMAZING!! I learned to say "I am a SURVIVOR" of childhood sexual abuse. I was abused from as early as I can remember til about 18. My sister told my mother...and it was ignored. And my mother confronted me in 9th grade and I told her and it was still ignored. I held on to ALOT of hate and anger. When I went to Voice Retreat, I expected the opposite of what I got. I was greeted with love and respect. And I was around women who understand how I feel. It was awesome!!! I really want to thank Angela for sharing her story, not with just me, but with all the women and for making me feel at home. I have never been so comfortable around people I didn't even know. I went for a weekend afraid and left with a family. I love them all!!! Thank you so much Angela!!
