

Carlos B. Quintero MD

Dr. Quintero is Board Certified in Internal Medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine and has been affiliated to NCH Healthcare System for 15 years. He earned a degree in Business Administration at Boston University prior to receiving his Medical Degree from Ponce School of Medicine in Ponce, Puerto Rico. He did his Internal Medicine residency training at the Ochsner Medical Center in New Orleans, Louisiana where he also served as Chief Medical Resident. Dr. Quintero is Adjunct Instructor in Medicine with the Mayo Clinic College of Medicine and Science and Associate Professor of Internal Medicine with the University of Central Florida, College of Medicine. He was recently named Chief Quality Officer for the NCH Healthcare System and serves as Chairman of the Department of Internal Medicine as well as the Director of the NCH Physicians Group Hospital Medicine Division at the Baker Campus. He is a part of the core Academic Faculty for the NCH Healthcare System Internal Medicine Residency Program and serves as member of several committees at NCH which include the Practitioners Excellence Committee and the Medical Executive Committee. Dr. Quintero has been an intricate member of the NCH COVID response team and is involved in several observational and prospective research projects among other patient safety and quality projects. Dr. Quintero has been the recipient of several awards at NCH including Physician of the Year in 2019 as well as the Physician Nurse Partnership Award, and the Carl Liebert MD Award for fostering peer review and quality of care initiatives. He is a current member of the American College of Physicians, the Society of Hospital Medicine as well as the Collier County Medical Society. Dr. Quintero is married to his wife Catalina and has three children, Sofia (13), Nicolas (12) and Santiago (9).