Simple Strategies for Supporting Friendships

May 7, 2019 • 6pm - 7:30pm (MST)
Developmental Pathways
325 Inverness Drive South
Englewood, CO 80112

Finding the right level of play for your child could open up their whole world. This workshop will help you identify your own child's unique level of play and help you develop tools to support them at this level and beyond for learning social skills, having successful playdates, and more engagement during school recess.

- Discover your child's play skill level
- Teach your child to initiate play, take turns, and talk with other children
- Structure a playdate to make it successful
- Support your child to be successful at recess
