EXCELLENCE IN LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Doing more with less sounds like an advert for one of the high street supermarkets, but it's what every council across the United Kingdom is having to do. With less money being distributed by central government, councils are having to find innovative ways to save money, increase efficiency and generate income.

Many councils are well on their way to achieving either or both of these things whether it be combining and sharing resources with another council, renting out office space to SME's or everything in between. Change is here and changes will continue to happen!

However, this isn't the end of collaboration and issues, with more powers continuing to be devolved to local councils and the creation of so called "super councils" but with no extra funding, it would appear that things will become more challenging before they get easier.

Topics to be discussed include:

- Collaboration • Partnerships • Cultural shifts • Cyber security • Adult social care • Risk management • Understanding data • Council digitalisation • Economic regeneration • Customer improvement • Creating a digital council • Community engagement • Evidence based decision making • Understanding data to reduce costs • Transformation insights from a large county • Innovation – Merging traditional with modern delivery models

Changing culture is the hardest thing to achieve in any organisation. Structure, performance data and strategy are all important aspects of a successful establishment but to truly achieve excellence within an organisation it must also have the right culture across the whole organisation. This presentation will focus on how Ceredigion County Council, a small rural authority successfully changed the culture to become one of the most successful authorities in Wales.

Eifion Evans, Chief Executive

09:00 - 09:30 CYBER LITERACY FOR THE BOARDROOM

Cyber threats have become one of the Top 5 Organisational Risks but, 'How do we know what looks good for cyber security' and 'How do we measure what risk we are willing to accept'.

Executives and members are pivotal in improving cyber security for Wigan and Bolton Councils so, how do we seek assurance that we are up to the challenge and understand your role in this?

In this session I will seek to answer these questions and many more, providing you with a toolkit to share with your senior teams to help them become more informed about the risks we face in our increasingly perimeter less, digital and collaborative world.

Like every large upper tier council, Staffordshire County Council grapples with a complex and challenging agenda. Increasing demand for services; maintaining essential infrastructure for 900,000 residents; delivering a £62 Million savings programme; and working with partners to develop a more prosperous and ambitious Staffordshire.

Andrew will give a candid insight into how Staffordshire is trying to be fit for the 21st century by delivering an ambitious plan to transform how the council operates with a more aspirational culture, a new relationship with citizens and a radical digital programme with partners.

Nalin Seneviratne, Director of City Centre Development Sheffield City Council will outline Sheffield's approach to city centre regeneration in the context of challenging development values and the changing face of retail. Sheffield's Heart of the City II scheme is an exemplar in how local authorities can lead where it is difficult for other sectors to do so. The approach also allows for key issues facing cities today to be addressed within the scope of a long-term view as the role of the private and public sectors in regeneration rebalances, with changes to occupier needs and demand.

EVIDENCED BASED DECISION MAKING AT KENT COUNTY COUNCIL

Kent County Council (KCC) has put evidenced based decision making at the forefront of its commissioning so that it spends prudently on what works (the relationship between cause and effect). The creation and development of KCC's centralised analytical capability is already producing some remarkable results and challenging conventional wisdom. Vincent has led this exciting change for KCC and will explain how they have gone about it by developing their expertise, using technology, and linking data sets, as well as sharing some of the results. This session will be particularly interesting to people working in corporate and adult social services."

WE CAN BUILD – A LOCAL AUTHORITY OWNED HOUSING COMPANY PERSPECTIVE

Councils are back in the business of building homes. The stats, facts and figures regarding the country's housing crisis are well known and constantly discussed. Many Councils across the land are going back to building 'corpy' houses; in Liverpool the Mayor announced the same in 2019. Many Councils have created LA owned housing companies; are they the way forward? HoCo's are increasing in number; there are now over 100 Local Authority Housing Companies across the country, commercial organisations owned wholly or in part by a local authority, able to buy land, build and own properties outside of the Housing Revenue Account and generate an income stream. This session aims to review the role of a HoCo from a Liverpool perspective, the opportunities, challenges and how they are being overcome.
