Introducing Faith Play

As we begin a new program year, we are excited to introduce Faith Play, a reimagining of our beloved Godly Play program. Due to the difficulty of securing enough leaders to continue Godly Play in its traditional format, we have prayerfully considered how to build upon what has been so meaningful while creating something new and sustainable for our children.

Faith Play will continue to center on the gift of storytelling and the wonderful story sets that have been an important part of our ministry. Through these stories, children will continue to hear and explore the stories of Scripture and discover God's love and presence in their lives. Alongside storytelling, Faith Play will incorporate music, arts and crafts, special music, and other creative opportunities for children to experience and express their faith.

We are especially blessed and grateful to have Laura Hornef, Audrey Jones, Jennifer Lewis, and Sarah Picking leading this new class on Sunday mornings. Their willingness to share their time, creativity, and love of children will help make Faith Play a joyful and meaningful experience for all.

While the name and format may be changing, our hope remains the same: to help children know God's stories, experience God's love, and grow in faith in ways that are joyful, creative, and meaningful.

We look forward to this new chapter and all that God has in store for Faith Play!
