

Family Resource Center Exploration Cohort

APRIL 16, 11 A.M. - 12 P.M.

Join us to learn how you can explore creating a Family Resource Center in your local community.

Family Resource Centers (FRCs) are trusted, community-based hubs where families can find connection, information, and support in times of need and as part of everyday life.

Thanks to support from the Sprouts Healthy Communities Foundation, Prevent Child Abuse Arizona is launching an FRC Exploration Cohort to help communities without a local FRC move from interest to action.

Through shared learning and collaboration, cohort participants will explore how to:

- Build on existing opportunities
- Address needs unique to their geography
- Incorporate community voice
- Understand FRC structures and funding models

Who should attend

- Local leaders ready to convene partners and move this idea forward in their communities

What you'll learn

- How Family Resource Centers strengthen communities
- How the FRC Exploration Cohort will work
- How your community can prepare to apply
