

YPWACC International Artists Workshop Series: Threaded Memories

with Ally Nolan and Nastassja Swift

Sponsorship Opportunities

May 14th, 2026 | McColl Center

Event Overview

We invite corporate and community partners to sponsor a special group experience at the McColl Center from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on May 14th, 2026.

Threaded Memories is an intimate, hands-on workshop that invites participants to explore the powerful connection between textiles and personal storytelling. Clothing and fabric often carry deep emotional resonance, reminding us of people, places, and meaningful moments in our lives.

In this guided session, participants will transform a cherished memory into a tactile work of art. Attendees are encouraged to bring a piece of fabric or clothing that holds personal significance, along with a photograph that reflects the memory tied to it (such as a loved one's garment paired with their image). Through a series of textile techniques, participants will experiment with ways to transfer, interpret, and reimagine these memories onto fabric, creating a unique and meaningful keepsake.

All skill levels are welcome. Participants may work directly on their own materials or use fabric provided during the workshop.

Why Sponsor?

Sponsoring is an investment in international education, cultural exchange, and community engagement. Led by an Irish artist-in-residence, this workshop offers participants a rare opportunity to engage directly with a global creative perspective. Your support helps bring international voices into the local community, creating accessible pathways for individuals to experience global traditions, storytelling methods, and artistic techniques firsthand. In addition to supporting the arts, sponsors align themselves with a program that emphasizes the value of global dialogue, creativity, and inclusive learning.
