

February 2026 Issue

Manella Calhoun - mhc.clemson@gmail.com

Foothills Presbytery Area Highlights:

PC(USA) congregations have joined thousands of Ecumenical houses of worship in ordering Eco-Palms for use in so many creative ways on Palm Sunday over the last few years. Working together, we do make a difference!

Supply chain issues are impacting all areas of our lives but the orders of these palms mean livelihood for harvesters, now, more than ever.

Congregations that order Eco-Palms should receive an email containing your order number the day you place your order.

The Monday before Palm Sunday, customers can log into their account to get the FedEx tracking number to show when the palms should arrive.

Eco-Palms staff can be contacted by phone at 651-487-7189.

Pricing can be found on the Eco-Palms site.

<https://www.ecopalms.org/>

Order Deadline (2026 Season)

- Website Opens: January 16th, 2026
- Order cutoff : March 7th, 2026
- Tracking Numbers for Deliveries Posted on your Order Page: March 23rd, 2026
- Deliveries: week prior to Palm Sunday (March 23rd - 27th, 2026)
- Palm Sunday: March 29th, 2026

Make social and environmental justice part of your congregation’s worship

The great crowd that had come to the festival heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem. So they took branches of palm trees and went out to meet him, shouting, “Hosanna! Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord — the King of Israel!” (John 12:12-13) Jesus’ entrance into Jerusalem, accented by the jubilant waving of palm branches, is re-enacted each Palm Sunday in Presbyterian and other Christian congregations worldwide as Holy Week observances begin. Unfortunately for the communities where these palms are harvested, palm fronds do not always represent the same jubilation they do for us.

In 2007 the PC(USA) teamed up with Lutheran World Relief, Catholic Relief Services and the University of Minnesota to offer congregations the option of purchasing responsibly harvested Eco-Palm branches for Palm Sunday. The palms come from communities in Mexico and Guatemala where workers are paid fairly and engage in sustainable harvesting in order to protect the local ecosystem.

Why order Eco-Palms?

- Approximately 300 million palm fronds are consumed in the United States annually.
- A congregation of 1,250 members orders approximately 700 fronds for Palm Sunday services.
- Eco-palms are purchased directly from harvesters at five to six times the normal payment per frond.
- Your purchase of eco-palms helps improve standards of living and protect forests.

Eco-Palms and your church: your role in supporting social and environmental justice

More than 300 million palm fronds are harvested each year for U.S. consumption alone — most of them for Palm Sunday, but also for floral displays for church-related events. Your congregation's commitment to purchase eco-palms plays an important role in protecting forests, local jobs, and sustainable livelihoods in the harvesting communities.

February

18 Ash Wednesday

Read Matthew 6:19-21. Consider what you see as treasure and how we are entrusted with the great treasure of our shared common home, the Earth.

19

Set aside time to plan steps of intentional care for all God's creation over the next 40 days.

20

Learn more about using sustainable palms in your worship.

Order online: <https://tinyurl.com/ecopalmspcusa>

21

Download the Climate Action Now app to take meaningful climate action on your phone in just seconds or minutes. www.climateactionnow.com

22

Challenge yourself to drink only water today. It takes 600 cups of water to produce a single cup of coffee, and 125 cups of water to produce a cup of tea.

23

Read Psalm 96:11-12 and reflect on one way you see the Earth rejoicing.

24

Carry or write down every item of trash you generate today. Challenge yourself to reduce the trash you produce for the remaining days of Lent.

25

Read Job 12:7-10. Consider what Creation might teach you today.

26

Open blinds and curtains on the sunny side of your house to let the sun shine in. Using the sun to naturally warm your home, which reduces reliance on energy-intensive furnaces, cutting energy bills, and lowering your carbon footprint.

27

Download Creation Justice Ministries annual resource to be prepared to celebrate Earth Day Sunday (4/19) www.creationjustice.org/earth-day-library.html

28

Take a walk to appreciate the Earth's natural beauty. Consider why preserving the Earth is crucial for the health of future generations and tell two people.

Read and reflect on Romans 8:22-23. Consider what we as humans do that makes Creation groan.

"In cities across the United States, there is a striking correlation between historic redlining maps and modern day tree canopy maps: precisely those communities that were historically redlined are the same ones that lack tree canopy coverage. As you layer on other social and economic factors, like race, income, and asthma rates, the trend continues. The dearth of trees in a community portends other issues of justice"

CAFÉ JUSTO IS AVAILABLE AGAIN, after a few challenges in the latter part of 2025.

The new price through the coffee and compassion order page will be $15 per pound, which includes shipping, with a two-pound minimum. The new price reflects the first increase in price in 4 years and only second in 14 years which, when combined with the falling value of the dollar, the 150% increase in the Mexican minimum wage over the last 6 years, and the pandemic-fueled inflation, led to severe cash flow issues for the coffee cooperative.

Priority will be given to shipping back orders (at the old price), and the new price of $15 will apply only to new orders beginning February 1, 2026.

Over the past weeks and months I have been hearing a lot about food. Immigrant families in Minneapolis too afraid to go to work, school, or the grocery store because of the violent presence of ICE on the streets. Emergency food distribution centers in Kansas running out of food because the need is so great. New Disabled South receiving 18,588 applications totaling $4.1 million worth of $100 and $250 requests for emergency assistance during the November 2025 government shutdown. And on Feb 1, 2026, new work requirements tied to SNAP, the largest food assistance program for families in need in the richest country in human history, started with millions being impacted.

It's destabilizing at times, to be awake to the reality that we are witnessing global reordering, systemic transitions, and power struggles that impact the well-being of our world. Shifting climate patterns, economic instability, authoritarian resurgence, and intentional deception campaigns are not just headlines— they impact our bodies' senses and shape our relationships. Depending on the identities that we carry, these collective pressures and struggles manifest in a multitude of privileges, disadvantages, individual and collective traumas. They show up as individual and interpersonal pain, discord in our relationships and material bodies, and these struggles embed into the systems we create to

When I think of hills, I think of the ones in Missouri. The ones that looked like heads of broccoli to me as a child when the trees were full and green in the summer. The sides of them are blasted open to make way for the highway, putting layers upon layers of rock on display in huge outcrops. I can close my eyes and, even from Connecticut, be back there, nestled between the rises. A place where I feel kept. Here, I feel like I fit in the order of things. In Psalm 121, the psalmist doesn't look above

It's been nearly two thousand years since the crucifixion of Jesus Christ, fifty-eight years since the assassination of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and eleven years since the murder of Michael Brown Jr. Though centuries separate these tragedies, the injustices that caused them persist. We live amid a moral and systemic bankruptcy: an indecency that allows individuals and institutions to harm with impunity. These are not isolated failures; they are functions of power structures designed to divide, destroy, and deny community and justice. The attitude is simple: either stand with your people, or perish.

The love of God in our world may not always be obvious. Our relationship with God is so personal and therefore, I think that many of us struggle with the very personal topic of God's love. I think we can get it when it comes to puppies, kittens and babies. Because they are so cute! But when it comes to the darker things in life, we may not always see God's love and trust it. But the love of God on a very basic level, is why we have life. (I understand this sentence is loaded, so just stay with

As an Old Testament specialist, there are few texts which capture my imagination in the way that Ezekiel 37, the vision of the valley of dry bones, does. Of course, this is in large part due to the bizarre imagery. The visuals of bones stitching themselves back together and skin materializing on top sounds more like a scene from a horror film than a vision of hope, healing, and vitality from a biblical text (vv. 6–8). Nevertheless, it is exactly this strangeness that spotlights not only the extent of God's miraculous power, a consistent theme proven time and time again

I want to start by being vulnerable with you. It has been hard to write this devotional. Not because my love for God is not strong, nor because I do not enjoy the season of Lent, but like so many of you, my soul feels heavy from the reality of the world. As I write this, our comrades in Minnesota are dealing with the presence of ICE in their state. There have been multiple deaths at the hands of government officials and sitting at my desk, in front of a laptop feels disconnected from the realities of life. I have

Lent invites us into the dangerous work of remembering. Not the soft remembering of nostalgia, but the disruptive remembering that unsettles empire. Lent calls us to remember who we are beneath the lies that those in power tell us about our worth. To remember who God has been in the long arc of liberation. To remember what it costs to love in ways that cross boundaries, threaten hierarchy, and refuse dehumanization. Across the lectionary texts appointed for Maundy Thursday, a pattern emerges: liberation is never abstract, and love that reorganizes power is always met with resistance. On this night in

The best book I read this year was Chain Gang All Stars by Nana Kawme Adjei-Brenyah. This dystopian, Hunger Games-eque novel was written as a critique of the American prison system. I found it so compelling because the storyline felt so close and so far away all at once. The novel takes up themes of torture, sin, innocence, and harming our neighbors (sometimes inadvertently). When we read Chain Gang All Stars, we hear the echoes of our current prison system in America. In this subtext, Aedjei-Brenyah invites us to think beyond our carceral reality through the power of imaginative fantasy.

Acts 10 represents the moment where Peter, a man bound by tradition and cultural boundaries, stands in the house of Cornelius, a Roman centurion and an agent of the occupying empire. Everything within Peter compelled Peter to not be there for as a Jew he was forbidden to enter the home of a gentile. Peter's words are revealing, "You yourselves know how unlawful it is for a Jew to associate with or to visit anyone of another nation, but God has shown me that I should not call any person common or unclean." This is a turning point in his

This season invites us into holy honesty: to tell the truth about grief and injustice, about exhaustion and hope, about the cross we carry and the resurrection we long for. We enter these forty days grounded in the fierce love of a God who delights in queer bodies, diverse families, and the radiant image of God reflected in every person.

Lent is not about shrinking ourselves. It is about returning to prayer, to courage, to community, to the Spirit who sustains movements for justice and breathes life into dry bones.

May these reflections from the MLP community guide you deeper into God's liberating love, steady your spirit for the work ahead, and remind you that even in the wilderness, you are not alone.
