HEALING DOMESTIC ABUSE

My Dear Friend, Pastor Ian & Siblings in Christ

Schools are already bursting with the sounds of laughter and the voices of children all over the country returning to school, and within a few weeks, we will be experiencing a change in the season, when the leaves of the trees will turn yellow and fall to the ground, literally without life.
What does this have in common with Healing Domestic Abuse? The power of our words to inspire a new generation and the power of our words to heal, dying to the past like old leaves and looking to the future of new growth with renewed hope. My efforts in this year's exhibit is to accomplish both: to INSPIRE hope for the future and HEAL the pain of the past.

I invite you to my 2025 Pop-up Art Exhibit, on the Power of Words, at the Galleries at Lynn Arts (GALA) on 25 Exchange Street, in Lynn, Massachusetts, from Wednesday, August 27th to Sunday, August, 31st. If this will be your first time, I look forward to meeting you. If you joined me last year, thank you; please come again and bring a friend. You will be deeply touched.

Having experienced the transforming power of words to promote healing from the trauma of domestic abuse, is the reason I have chosen the art form of exquisitely framing life-giving words that heal and inspire HOPE, as words also have the immense power to cause pain, diminish our self-worth and create turmoil.

In my Exhibit are also t-shirts, with a purposeful question printed on the front ~ "Who do You think You are" ~ (who are You ~ who do You want to become?) Printed, self-assuredly on the back, is the powerful "I AM" with supporting affirmations.

It is my hope that my Pop-up Exhibit will offer a sacred space to inspire you, to read, reflect, to reclaim or claim yours and mine "precious WHO." My hope is that we will be reminded of how much our words matter; matter for ourselves, our shared humanity, and importantly for our children in helping them to BECOME ~ to become the best possible versions of ours and their human selves. Imagine the power of words to do THAT!

More than ever, now is the time. Please join me in this much needed effort Your purchase helps me support folks like me who are on their healing journey or in recovery.
Grace, Peace, Joy and overflowing Blessings,

Ms. Lu Lynne Dawson
