

Stephen's Ministry training is a unique opportunity to empower lay people to use their gifts to provide companionship for a person who is hurting. Fulton First and Hickman First are working together to begin a training class in May for people who feel called to be a Stephen Minister.

The extensive training is 50 hours and prepares Stephen's Ministers to provide healthy care for an individual. They listen, care, support, encourage and pray with and for a Care Receiver in one on one, confidential, same gender relationships.

The training will be held at Fulton First, led by Sue Engle, Betty Milliken, and John Varden. These classes are open to all in our area. If you have individuals who would like to participate, please contact Sue or John for more information. Applications are attached and requested to be returned by April 15th.
