Kendra Anderson, emergency communications officer

A resident of Chesterfield County, Kendra is the mother of three girls. She is a junior at the University of Phoenix, working toward a bachelor's degree in correctional studies. She enjoys family-oriented activities, traveling and new experiences.

Sydnie Baker, emergency communications officer

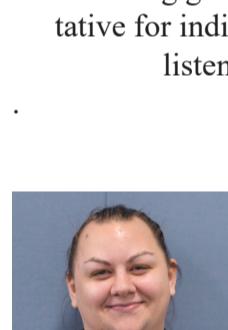

Born and raised in Amelia, Virginia, Sydnie earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Virginia and recently graduated with a master of science degree in criminal justice from Liberty University. She loves to read and is an avid movie fanatic.

Quinton Blackwell, emergency communications officer

Previously a front desk manager for a medical practice in Midlothian, Quinton is 28 and married for three years with three sons (ages 7, 6 and 1). He enjoys going to the gym, playing basketball and watching movies with his kids. He recently transferred from the University of Phoenix to Full Sail University, and he will receive his bachelor's degree in cloud technologies in spring 2021.

Morgan Bland, emergency communications officer

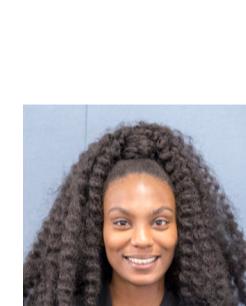

Coming from the U.S. Postal Service, Morgan speaks Mandarin and enjoys learning languages. She writes that she is excited to begin working as an emergency communications officer.

Michael Campbell, emergency communications officer

A former EMT in Richmond, Michael is in his last semester of college at Liberty University. His future goal is to go to law school to help serve his fellow first responders.

Jordan Christensen, emergency communications officer

Jordan and his wife recently moved to Richmond from Salt Lake City, Utah, where he worked in customer service. Originally from California, he has worked at a golf course cleaning golf carts, in retail, as a computer salesman, and as a customer service representative for individuals in Brazil. He speaks fluent Portuguese and loves hockey, movies and listening to audiobooks. "I am very excited to be here at the DEC," Jordan writes.

Jennifer Flowers, emergency communications officer

Jennifer recently moved to Richmond from California, where she was an order processing clerk at BJ's Wholesale Club.

Bria Green, emergency communications officer

Bria moved to Richmond from New Jersey a year and a half ago. She enjoys cooking, skating, sewing and trying out all different types of food. She looks forward to becoming a part of the team and getting to know everyone.

Dinita Jackson, technology specialist

An employee of the City of Richmond for more than 18 years, Dinita Jackson has worked in a variety of positions in accounting, billing, HR, payroll and purchasing. For the past three years, she worked at the DIT Help Desk. A native of Norfolk, she moved to Richmond more than 30 years ago and met the "love of my life." She and her husband have two daughters, ages 22 and 25, and a grand dog. She loves spending time with family, going to the movies and bowling. "I'm extremely excited about becoming a part of the DEC family," she writes.

Mariah Johnson, emergency communications officer

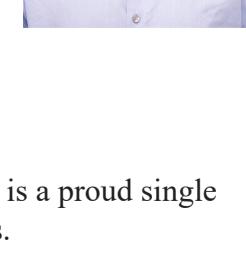

Coming from the Virginia Department of Corrections, where she was a strike force sergeant, Mariah is 24 years old, with a degree in criminal justice. She enjoys kayaking, hiking and camping, and she is looking forward to working with everyone in the department.

Crystal Migliorini, emergency communications officer

Coming from Caroline County, Crystal has four children, ages 9 to 20. She enjoys being outdoors, camping, hiking and water sports. She has returned to school to earn an EM in disaster relief.

Wren Sinclair, emergency communications officer

Coming from a position as a civil technician, Wren grew up in the Chesterfield/Richmond area, where he has lived most of his life. He enjoys spending time with his family and friends, cooking, asking Google random questions, riding his motorcycle, video games and working out.

Brittany Washington, emergency communications officer

A native of Brooklyn, Brittany relocated to Richmond two years ago. She is a proud single mom of three. In her spare time, she enjoys cooking and watching movies.