

Siobhan Branch, emergency communications officer

Formerly a USPS rural mail carrier, Siobhan enjoys family time, cooking, vacations and watching movies.

Brianna Brown, emergency communications officer

Brianna was a customer service agent before joining DECPR. She describes herself as having a bubbly and goofy personality. She enjoys doing makeup, making candies, shopping and helping others.

Alexus Clements, emergency communications officer

Before coming to DECPR, Alexis was a customer service representative with T-Mobile. She is married and a part of LGBTQ. Her dog is her “baby,” and loves to eat, cook, travel and have fun. During off time, she loves reading and being with her family.

Kelly Donati, emergency communications officer

Previously a bus driver, Kelly is married with a 5-year-old English bulldog. She was a dispatcher from 2004 to 2017. She volunteers with the Fine Creek Volunteer Fire Department in Powhatan County and the Gasburg Fire and EMS and Central Volunteer Rescue Squad, both in Gasburg.

London Finney, emergency communications officer

Formerly a communications officer with Capital Police, London enjoys designing clothes and marketing. She enjoys building businesses and the process of growth. Her career focus is on helping others and making others’ lives better than before.

Madison Fultz, emergency communications officer

Madison worked for Dicks Sporting Goods before joining DECPR. She loves to spend time with her family and find activities for the weekend. She says that she is excited to begin work and learn new things.

Novice “A’Miracle” Henley, emergency communications officer

Previously a server and bartender, A’Miracle describes herself as having a “very bubbly personality.” She is going to school to become a doctor, and her hobbies include taking care of her dogs.

Michael Keskeys, emergency communications officer

Before coming to DECPR, Michael was a customer service specialist in Norfolk. He is married to his wife, Kimetra, and has two dogs, Mango and Honeybee, both rescues. In his spare time, he likes to work out, watch movies and collect comic books.

Kayla Lewis, emergency communications officer

Previously a customer service representative, Kayla was born and raised in Richmond, where she graduated from Huguenot High School. Known as “Kay” or “Moo Moo” to her family, she says that her grandparents and mom and dad inspire her and are her biggest supporters. She enjoys traveling, pink and jewelry.

Shauna McWilliams, emergency communications officer

Before coming to DECPR, Shuana was a customer service associate with Anthem. She has a 6-year-old son, Cameron, who is her “bestie.” They love going to the pool and beaches. She enjoys traveling, shopping, cooking and outdoor activities. With an outgoing pesonality, she writes that she is a positive person who looks at the glass as half full. “We’re not here for a long time; we’re here for a good time,” is her motto.

Brandon Mosby, emergency communications officer

Formerly a department supervisor with Lowe’s of West Chesterfield, Brandon always has been interested in public safety. He loves sports, music and movies. Pizza is his favorite food, and he is the biggest Dallas Cowboys fan.

Monica Parker, emergency communications officer

Coming from a cashier position with the Glen Allen Target store, Monica writes that her family is everything. She loves to cook and also enjoys karaoke, dancing and watching Tik-Tok.

Myesha Pierre, emergency communications officer

Previously a machine operator, Myesha is the mother of two energetic kids who keep her on her feet. She loves to hang out with family and friends as well as read books. She writes that she loves people and is very outgoing.

Precious Shanklin, emergency communications officer

Precious was a customer service representative with General Motors before coming to DECPR. She is a mother of six wonderful children, and is a cheerleading and football mom. She loves to cook, listen to music and paint. She writes that she is very outgoing and loves to put a smile on people’s faces and to motivate others with a positive word.

Sabrina Stuart, emergency communications officer

Coming from a position as a store lead consultant with Fedex, Sabrina likes to hang out with friends. She is a concert junkie who loves seeing her favorite artists in person. She loves music and making new friends.

Charlsye “Cee Cee” Tolson, emergency communications officer

Previously an operations specialist, Cee Cee graduated from Longwood University with a bachelor’s degree in communications. Her hobbies include traveling and hanging out with family and friends, and she loves to sing.

Christina Trevino, emergency communications officer

Previously a teacher’s aide, Christina once won Janet Jackson’s Rhythm Nation Tour tickets by singing the Meow Mix jingle on the radio. Born and raised in Indiana, she enjoys traveling, art and music. Her pride and joy is her Teacup Yorkie, Bella.

