Diamyn Brooks, emergency communications officer

Coming from Serenity Counseling Service of Virginia, Diamyn will graduate from Virginia Commonwealth University in May with a degree in criminal justice with a concentration in forensic crime scene investigation. She has been singing since the age of 5.

James Scott, emergency communications officer

A recent graduate of Virginia Commonwealth University, double majoring in criminal justice and homeland security, James was a sheriff's deputy with Henrico County before joining DEC. He is an Eagle Scout with Scouting of America and loves to kayak, camp and rock climb. He looks forward to working with DEC.

Lakota Smith, emergency communications officer

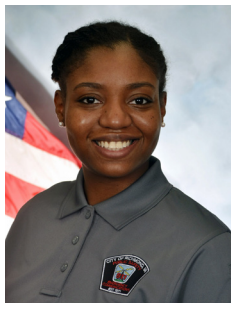

Previously a client engagement specialist with Owens and Minor Inc. in Richmond, Lakota is in the Virginia National Guard. He has been a member of a Bavarian folk dancing group for more than 10 years, and he enjoys watching movies and gaming.

Donald "Craig" Stroud, emergency communications officer

Previously with Colonial Honda, Craig is a certified firefighter level 2 and has a certification in Hazardous Materials. He loves to help people and work in public safety.

Jennifer "Jen" Warren, emergency communications officer

Coming from Montgomery, Alabama, where she was a cardiac tech and a 911 operator, Jen loves to help others. She has four "amazing" sisters and four nephews, and enjoys cooking and watching and playing games for fun.

Jennasia "Nae" Wheeler, emergency communications officer

Previously an account expert from T-Mobile, Nae has two "beautiful" kids.
She likes to cook new recipes and perfect her craft of doing nails.
She looks forward to helping and serving her city.