David Loines Bio

David was named the Director for the Office of Government Contracting in June of 2019, after serving as the acting Director. The Director position is responsible for leading a workforce of over 100 SBA employees including the six Office of Government Contracting Area Offices that cover Federal buying activities across the United States and territories and tasked with helping the Federal Government achieve the statutory 23% goal for contracts awarded to small business.

David has worked on many special projects and developed numerous procurement vehicles and strategies to help small business and implemented innovative methods to ensure maximum participation by small business on Federal procurements.

David has managed various GC programs during his career and is a former Area Director, Deputy Director for Government Contracting, Director for the Office of Natural Resources Sales Assistance directing the day-to-day operations of the SBA Timber set-aside Program, and as a 1102 Procurement Analyst executing the Non-Manufacturer Rule Program.

David served as the initial Director for the SBA Business Matchmaking Program overseeing all events for the agency including a special effort in the Gulf States (post-Katrina) to provide aid to small businesses devastated by the hurricane. David also performed a detail on Capitol Hill assigned to the Senate Small Business Committee providing expertise in the review of language for the Small Business Jobs Bill. David has built his 38-year career exclusively at the SBA, beginning his career as a computer programmer and analyst.

David resides in Maryland with his family.
