DID YOU KNOW?

Canine Assisted Therapy is actively visiting facilities and safely providing in-person visits at various locations. The benefits of these visits are felt by patients, staff and caregivers alike.

The use of animal-assisted therapy in medical and non-medical settings (like community programs and universities) can significantly reduce stress, pain, anxiety, depression and fatigue in people with a range of physical or mental health issues.

Below are just some of the places we're currently visiting. If you would like to bring a therapy dog program to your school or facility, contact us for more information.

Making a commitment to volunteer as a pet therapy team is a special calling for both the handler and dog. It also creates a priceless bond between you, your dog and those we serve. Our volunteer pet therapy teams are truly the heart and soul of our organization and we thank each and every one of them for their service.

Our Team is Growing!

The Canine Assisted Therapy team is growing and we are excited to welcome our new Grant Coordinator, Monica Wesolowski.

Monica is a long time supporter of the organization and has volunteered on our Advisory Council. She was instrumental in bringing our therapy dogs to the Sun Sentinel several years ago when she worked in Marketing and we are fortunate to have her in our pack.

Welcome to the team, Monica!

A Look Back and a Glance Forward

This past month our therapy dogs were busy visiting hospitals, foster care group homes, treatment centers and nursing homes. The regular interactions the dogs have with the residents and patients they visit, often, become a critical part of the healing process. Check out some more of the places we've been!

Thanks to you

If there's one thing about our South Florida community we know for sure, it's that when the going gets tough, the tough get going (and giving)! Over the years we've been blessed by generous neighbors and strangers alike. This month we'd like to pay special tribute to the Whole Foods Market Community Giving program for their continuous support. Thank you for believing in us!
