

The FUTURE of WORK

The world of work is changing, propelling some to greater heights while leaving others behind. Globalization, advances in technology, demographic shifts, and other factors leave many wondering whether we, as a society, are ready to face the many challenges tomorrow's economy will bring. Join Colorado's Future of Work expert Katherine Keegan to understand, prepare for, and develop policy and programmatic solutions to foster an economy that works for everyone in Colorado and look at ways that rural communities and businesses in Northwest Colorado can better understand and prepare for these trends.
