

Dave Rufino

Candidate for President

The solidarity and strength of our membership are what make our union strong. Building upon these ideals are the key to our continued success. As President, I will focus on building a union which empowers our members and develops leaders, while building solidarity within the music and labor communities. As current President in Providence, I understand the privilege and responsibility of representing working musicians and am always seeking ways to communicate and serve our members better. I humbly ask you for your vote to serve as the next President of the Boston Musicians Association.
