

You are invited to Cal/OSHA's Heat Illness Prevention Network call. Learn the requirements to protect outdoor workers from heat illness, receive important updates on workplace safety and have your questions answered by Cal/OSHA during this yearly call.

What: The Heat Illness Prevention Network (HIP Network) is a voluntary partnership of public agencies, employers and other representatives established to increase awareness of heat illness prevention measures. The call is a yearly opportunity to engage with the network and hear directly from Cal/OSHA.

When: April 29, 2021 at 1:30 pm.

Where: Zoom call, see details below.

Agenda: Discussions on:

- Requirements for COVID-19 and heat illness prevention.
- Summary of 2020 heat-related fatality cases and lessons learned.
- Regulation update:
 - Wildfire smoke protection
 - Nighttime illumination in agriculture
 - Indoor heat
- Labor laws, including pay and retaliation, from the Labor Commissioner's Office.
- Questions and answers.

Call in: Cal/OSHA is inviting you to a scheduled Zoom meeting.
