About the Book

Rooted and Rising brings together a diverse range of voices to explore the spiritual perspectives that sustain climate activism. Featuring study questions and spiritual practices, this remarkable collection of essays is for everyone concerned about the climate crisis.

About the Author

Leah Schade, PhD, is a Lutheran pastor, eco-theologian, author of Creation-Crisis Preaching: Ecology, Theology and the Pulpit, and assistant professor of preaching and worship at Lexington Theological Seminary in Kentucky.

Margaret Bullitt-Jonas, PhD, is an Episcopal priest, author, and climate activist serving as missioner for Creation Care in the Episcopal Diocese of Western Massachusetts and Massachusetts Conference, United Church of Christ.

Praise for the Book

“This book puts new steel in my spine and fires up my resolve. You need this book, and the Earth needs you to take its message and resources to heart.”

— Brian D. McLaren, author, speaker, and activist

“Rooted and Rising should be required reading at all Christian seminaries, rabbinical and Islamic colleges! This collection provides an important way forward for religious leaders to take action for ethical sustainability using the best sources in their own traditions while cultivating interfaith friendships to work for eco-justice.”

— David Grafton, professor of Islamic studies and Christian-Muslim relations, Hartford Theological Seminary

“This stunning collection acknowledges the fear, anger, and despair evoked by the climate crisis. At the same time, the book lifts up the extraordinary power of human beings to take collective action, if they so choose. Our lives can find purpose and meaning in this perilous time.”

— Lise Van Susteren, MD, co-author of The Psychological Effects of Global Warming on the United States
