

Resource Room Presents Career Success for Job Seeker

Jingzang, a job seeker who visited our Worcester Career Center and was selected for the Reemployment Services and Eligibility Assessment program (RESEA) as part of her unemployment insurance benefits program, attended the Career Center Seminar and completed a counseling session (also known as a RESEA Review), with her Career Counselor Joyce Courtney in February. Jingzang then went on to utilize the Professor Teaches online training program in the career center's resource room and worked with the Resource Room Librarian, Wendy Gould, to access this and other services via the room's computers.

Jingzang completed five different Professor Teaches modules, including one regarding the use of PowerPoint, and used this training to create a presentation for one of her four interviews before receiving an offer of employment as an Associate Scientist in Cambridge, MA at an annual salary of $112,500.00.

Jingzang wrote Wendy a note, stating that her success story "highlights the value that the Professor Teaches program brings to all job seekers regardless of their work experience or education level. I just accepted an offer this week, thank you very much for all your help. I really appreciated the advanced professional training of computer programs that you offered, it was very helpful and I used some of the methods I learned for my interview, and the result was great! Please extend my thanks to all of you, and much appreciated!"

We're thrilled with your success Jingzang, and encourage other job seekers to see Wendy Gould for more information about the Professor Teaches training offered in the Workforce Central Resource Room.
