

Mt. Horeb Presbyterian Church
PC USA

Mt. Horeb Presbyterian Church, located in the heart of the Bluegrass of Kentucky, is seeking to find a part-time interim or permanent minister to lead our vibrant and enthusiastic congregation.

We are located 5 miles north of Lexington in scenic horse country. The church is nestled among some of Kentucky's oldest horse farms. Many of our members have ties to the horse industry spanning generations.

Our congregation is small, but we are mighty followers of Christ. We participate in many missions throughout the year on a local, regional, and global basis. Our Presbyterian Women lead our largest mission that provides weekly "backpack" meals to underserved children at the local elementary school. We work in unison with other Presbyterian churches to collect clothes for the homeless. Our congregation supports Buckhorn Children & Family Services and Dessie Scott Children's Home in Eastern Kentucky.

Worshippers of Mt Horeb are like family. Our social traditions include monthly fellowship meals and e-newsletters to maintain connections and share news.

Mt. Horeb is steeped in American history and the development of the Presbyterian religion in the early state of Kentucky. The church will celebrate its 200th year next spring. Despite its age, the church facilities are in excellent condition. The grounds are picturesque with mature trees, gardens, historic grave markers, and 360° views of horse pastures. Our columbarium lies in a quiet picturesque corner with teak benches

The church has no debt and is in excellent, sustainable financial condition.

If you are seeking a part-time ministerial role, we would love to have a conversation with you about your goals and vision for leadership. We encourage you to reach out to our clerk, Alison Thompson (MtHorebClerk@gmail.com), or to the Transylvania Presbytery. We look forward to meeting you!

Sincerely,

Dr. Robert G. Downing, Jr
