BAD LIZARD GRANITE & QUARTZ

13 Years of Quality, Growth and Community

Local company specializes in stone surfaces for homes across the region

By Staff Writer

For the past 13 years, Bad Lizard Granite & Quartz has been helping homeowners and builders across North Central West Virginia bring beauty and durability into their homes through expertly crafted stone surfaces.

Owned and operated by Johnnie Rominger and Trevor Flanagan, the company specializes in the fabrication and installation of both natural and engineered stone surfaces, including kitchen countertops, bathroom countertops, and vertical shower walls.

Serving a driving radius of approximately 2.5 hours from Clarksburg, West Virginia, Bad Lizard Granite & Quartz has built a strong reputation for quality craftsmanship and customer service.

Their journey began in 2013 when they recognized a growing demand for stone countertops throughout the region. As population growth fueled new home construction and remodeling projects, they saw an opportunity to fill a major need in the market.

“Our timing could not have been better,” they shared. “We hit the ground running in 2013 and grew as the area grew.”

ADVICE FOR NEW BUSINESS OWNERS

When asked what advice they would give to someone starting a business, their answer was simple but powerful: commit fully.

“Be prepared to commit all of your time into your business. If you can do that, you’ll have the advantage over your competition that can’t.”

A STRONG CONNECTION

Their connection with the North Central West Virginia Home Builders Association began through the organization’s annual Home Show. After seeing the professionalism, organization, and strong community involvement of the association and its members, they knew they wanted to become involved.

“The NCWVHBA is a great organization with great members that care about the community. It was a perfect fit for us.”

The Bad Lizard Granite & Quartz team is proud to serve homeowners and builders throughout North Central West Virginia.

THE BIGGEST BENEFIT

One of the biggest benefits they have experienced from membership has been participation in the annual Home Show. As a vendor every year since opening our doors 13 years ago, they credit the event with helping them connect with countless customers and grow their business throughout the region.

“Our biggest benefit by far our participation in the annual Home Show organized by the NCWVHBA since we opened our doors. We’ve met so many customers at those shows. If you’re in any type of business that can relate, then you need to join the NCWVHBA and get involved. It will be well worth your time.”

The North Central West Virginia Home Builders Association is proud to spotlight members like Bad Lizard Granite & Quartz who continue to strengthen the building industry while supporting the communities they serve.
