Fat Guy Scuba Supply Named an Authorized NEX Underwater Products Dealer

Expanded partnership brings NEX regulators, BCD systems, sidemount equipment and specialized dive gear to recreational and technical divers nationwide

SARASOTA, FL — August 26, 2026 — Fat Guy Scuba Supply, a specialty scuba retailer focused on helping divers find equipment that fits their bodies, diving styles and individual needs, today announced that it is now an Authorized NEX Underwater Products Dealer. The authorization expands Fat Guy Scuba Supply's growing equipment selection with genuine NEX scuba products for recreational, technical, sidemount and configuration-focused divers.

Through Fat Guy Scuba Supply, divers can now shop a growing selection of NEX Underwater Products, including NEX regulators and regulator components, Leatherback BCD systems, Hammerhead sidemount equipment, backplates, harnesses, wings, weight-system components, specialized hardware and diving accessories. As an authorized NEX retail source, Fat Guy Scuba Supply provides customers with access to genuine NEX equipment along with knowledgeable assistance in selecting and configuring gear for their individual diving needs.

“Adding NEX Underwater Products to our lineup fits perfectly with what Fat Guy Scuba Supply was created to do,” said Robert C. Wesler, Managing Director of Fat Guy Scuba Supply. “We aren't interested in simply filling shelves with the same equipment everyone else carries. We look for products that give divers meaningful choices and the ability to configure their equipment around how they actually dive. NEX brings that kind of flexibility and innovation to the table.”

The addition of NEX further supports Fat Guy Scuba Supply's mission of challenging the traditional one-size-fits-all approach to scuba equipment. The company specializes in helping divers—including larger, big-and-tall, plus-size and other non-standard-fit divers—identify equipment suited to their bodies, experience levels and diving environments. From exposure protection and buoyancy systems to regulators, masks, fins, weight systems and technical diving equipment, Fat Guy Scuba Supply emphasizes proper fit, appropriate configuration and real-world functionality over simply selling more gear.

“Divers shouldn't have to adapt themselves to equipment that wasn't designed with them in mind,” Wesler added. “Whether someone is building their first recreational setup, refining a technical configuration or putting together a sidemount system, our job is to help them find equipment that works for them. Becoming an Authorized NEX Underwater Products Dealer gives us even more ways to accomplish that.”

Divers searching for an Authorized NEX Underwater Products Dealer, genuine NEX scuba equipment, NEX regulators, Leatherback BCD systems, Hammerhead sidemount systems, NEX backplates, harnesses, wings, hardware and accessories can explore the expanding NEX collection through Fat Guy Scuba Supply.

About Fat Guy Scuba Supply

Fat Guy Scuba Supply is a Sarasota, Florida-based scuba equipment retailer founded on a simple principle: scuba diving is for everybody, but scuba equipment isn't always designed that way. The company serves divers of all sizes and experience levels while maintaining a particular focus on larger, big-and-tall, plus-size and non-standard-fit divers who have historically been underserved by conventional dive retailers. Fat Guy Scuba Supply offers recreational and technical scuba equipment, exposure protection, buoyancy systems, regulators, masks, fins, accessories and specialized fit guidance from people who understand that the right dive gear starts with the diver.
