

Scuba Educators International forms partnership with DAN

Scuba Educators International (SEI) has formed a partnership with the Divers Alert Network (DAN) to offer our membership the opportunity to teach the best Diver first Aid in the industry. This is effective immediately and is available in our e-learning portal.

Divers Alert Network (DAN) and Scuba Educators International (SEI) have formed a partnership that will make Diving safer for all SCUBA divers. Just imagine that if every SCUBA Diver in the world were certified to handle most emergencies that might occur at a dive sight just how many more diving accidents would have a positive outcome. That is the goal of SEI partnering with DAN.

Take another moment and imagine that every SCUBA Diver in the world has been taught rescue procedures in their entry level course. SEI requires every SCUBA diving student to be taught these skills at every level of SCUBA and snorkeling courses. SEI also requires that a practice rescue scenario be performed in every course that is taught. This is a goal for SEI, create safer, more educated and comfortable SCUBA divers.

Can you imagine how many lives would have been saved in the past and future if every SCUBA diver embraced both goals listed above? SEI does embrace both goals in order to create much safer SCUBA divers and snorkelers. Wouldn't our sport be much better off if this were true if all our training agencies put action to their words on these matters.

So how can any SCUBA Instructor, for any agency, become Instructors that are able to teach the best SCUBA Course in the SCUBA industry and become qualified to teach these courses? It's easy all you must do to become an SEI "powered by DAN" Instructor is to crossover to SEI. If you are already a DAN Instructor or a "powered by DAN" Instructor, you will automatically be upgraded to an SEI powered by DAN instructor. If you are not currently a "powered by DAN" instructor, SEI invites you to attend the co-sponsored "powered by DAN" instructor course that will be held the 2 days prior to the start of DEMA. This course is offered to all current Divemasters, Assistant Instructors and Instructors. You do not have to be an instructor to teach these courses.

If you are a Divemaster, Assistant Instructor or Instructor and a current member of Scuba Educators International you just need to take the SEI "powered by DAN" Instructor course, prior to DEMA or at one of our other regional courses and you will be able to offer your students these wonderful courses. If you are already a current DAN instructor or a current "powered by DAN" Instructor for any agency, all you have to do is send a copy of your credentials to our Headquarters and you will automatically be recognized by SEI.

Don't miss out on teaching these very profitable courses and growing the safety of SCUBA and Snorkeling throughout our part of the world. The Diving First Aid course will be a great to teach during those slow winter months. Give us a call to find out additional information or to register for this Instructor course. If you would prefer to get information face to face, stop by DEMA booth #833 and talk to us directly. Our entire Executive Team will be on hand at DEMA so be sure to stop by and introduce yourself and meet us.

Kenny Wheeler
Director of Sales and Marketing

info@scubaeducators.org

(765) 281-0600