

Sponsoring a Nationally Recognized Training for the Upper Valley

Racism for the Well-Intended

Monday, May 20, 2019

8:30 a.m. – 4:00 p.m. (check-in begins at 8:00 a.m.)

Hypertherm, 71 Heater Road, Lebanon, NH

The training is free, but space is limited. Lunch is provided. Pre-registration is required by May 10. REGISTER here. If you have questions, contact Alice Ely at alice.ely@uvpublichealth.org or 603-523-7100.

"I talk about diversity in a wide variety of communities around the country. These two gentlemen bring such authenticity to the exploration of race from both perspectives. I haven't seen this anywhere before."

Praise from Prudence Pease,
National Consultant, aha! Process and Director, Work United

This one-day training provides an in-depth look at the underlying racial tension that continues to permeate our society today. It was developed to provide a forum where groups can learn skills necessary for discussing this challenging topic and for building alliances for moving forward in the struggle against racism and its impact on our professional and personal relationships. Racism of the Well-Intended has been used by health care organizations, community groups, and other professional groups to serve as a model for changing relationships between people. The design allows a great deal of interaction between participants. The skill and technique of the facilitators is utilized as participants express their opinions and beliefs about the issues presented during the program. By focusing on the solution rather than staying stuck in the problem, Racism of the Well-Intended will keep people positively motivated and moving forward.

Presenters: Jim Wuelfing and Art Woodward, MSW

Jim Wuelfing is owner of the New England Center, a company dedicated to quality training and technical assistance services. Aside from being a national leader in recovery coaching, recovery community organizations and prevention of problem gambling, Jim has many specialties including strategic planning, cultural competency, peer education, community organizing, spiritual growth, and curriculum development. In a consultant capacity, Jim has served as the Director of the Recovery Coach Academy for CCAR (Connecticut Community for Addiction Recovery) and as the Prevention and Recovery Consultant for the Massachusetts Council on Compulsive Gambling where he directed the prevention and recovery of problem gambling throughout the Commonwealth.

Art Woodward, MSW has worked his best to learn, practice and teach Care, Recovery and Wellness. Art is a SOULcial Worker whose practice has evolved through personal, educational, clinical and practical experiences from 1974 to the present. He has worked in a variety of treatment, research and training institute settings while discovering, developing and providing SOULcial work services for HELPing Care, Recovery and Wellness. Currently Art is developing and facilitating learning collaboratives whose focus is care and competent cultures of care.