Empowering Your Community at the End of Life: Developing an Indigenous Death Doula Program

June 5, 2024 | 12 - 1:00 p.m. EDT

Learn more about "Lifting Our Minds" - an initiative created to provide a safe space of communication regarding the transitioning from the physical being to the spirit world. The goal is to empower communities and equipped them with confidence, understanding, and teachings in culture and traditions regarding end-of-life care.

Everyone welcome to attend

Elder Diane Boots Death Doula

Diane created "Lifting Their Minds," an end-of-life project focused on providing a safe space for communication about transitioning from the physical to the spiritual realm. She believes in the importance of support and understanding during this time, for both the person transitioning and their families. Diane, who comes from a family of midwives and has experience as a Birth Doula, sees her work as a spiritual gift in supporting the human life cycle.
