Have you heard of Work-Based Learning? In 2017 Nevada Legislature passed SB66 which, among other things, required all Nevada School Districts to establishing educational strategies that offer students the opportunity to connect classroom learning to authentic business/industry experiences. This is done through career exploration and various activities including informational interviews, industry tours, job shadowing and pre-apprenticeships. Nevada Builders has been involved with developing an innovative Tri-County program called Career Bound NV. This collaboration with JOIN, Inc., Washoe County School District, Carson City School District, Douglas School District and various business and governmental agencies will work to connect students to in-demand careers throughout the region. For more information click here then ask us how you can get involved!

Nevada Builders has also been working with the Clark County School District, Workforce Connections and industry leaders to help make the construction trades more accessible for CCSD students. Currently, there are several working groups addressing the following issues: Early exposure, Streamlining Access, Messaging and the Licensing Process. We welcome any insights, suggestions or participation.
