Character Education Through Sports

Do youth sports build character? The Play Like a Champion Today Educational Series has created a workshop that gives parents of children in grades K-8 the tools they need to provide a fun and enriching youth sports experience. Parent Like a Champion takes parents through a program designed to help them partner with coaches in the development of their Champion and empowers them to create a better youth sports culture. Filled with useful strategies and important tips, this is a must-attend workshop for sports parents.

Play Like A Champion Today Educational Series programs are research-based and child-centered approaches to youth and high school sports. This workshop was developed in collaboration with faculty at Notre Dame's Shaw Center for Children and Families and with social scientists, philosophers, theologians, sport scientists, physicians and parenting experts in universities nationally and internationally. The series was also created in conjunction with faculty from the University of Notre Dame as well as coaches and administrators from the Notre Dame Athletic Department.
