To our CCCAOE Fall 2021 Conference Attendees, Presenters, and Exhibitors,

As 2021 continues with pandemic challenges we had hoped would fade away with 2020, your thoughts may have turned to the big question on everyone's mind: What are the plans for the Fall 2021 Conference?

We have no higher priority than the safe and healthy gathering for our first In-Person event since March 2020. Accordingly, we want to share with you that we will follow the most current CDC guidelines.

Distancing: Occupancy limitations in panel sessions will be in place to ensure appropriate distancing per applicable county and/or state guidance. Seating capacity will be managed in each of our program rooms and the General Session rooms to allow for extra spacing.

Sanitizing: Wash your hands regularly. Hand sanitizers will be available throughout the facility. Limit passing out things that can be touched multiple times. The less "touching-sharing" the better.

Masks: Currently the CDC is encouraging the wearing of masks indoors for all attending individuals, unless eating or drinking. Masks will be required indoors.
Remember: When flying...mask up!

We encourage you to practice CDC protocols as you enjoy the conference. We have gathered some tools for you to assist in keeping the event safe and comfortable for all.
