

Reverend Megan Berry

A Missouri native, Megan graduated from Drury University with a BA in music and a minor in psychology. Her summer camp experiences working with children and youth were central to her feeling called to the ministry. Megan earned her Master of Divinity degree from Louisville Presbyterian Seminary and was ordained in her home church in Heartland Presbytery in 2021. For the past two years, Megan has been a Resident Minister at First Presbyterian Church in Ann Arbor, MI. Among her activities there were writing curricula for Sunday School classes, developing a class for parents of confirmation class participants, and working with the church's high school youth program. She recently returned from leading a week-long mission trip of high school students to Puerto Rico.

Megan loves serving the church inside and outside the building walls. Since seminary, Megan has been a small group leader for Montreat Youth Conference and Presbyterian Youth Triennium, and was serving as a board member for the Great Lakes Association of Partners in Christian Education (GLAPCE).

Megan is an avid video game player (ask her how her first play through of Breath of the Wild is going) and an accomplished flutist. When Megan isn't crafting or reading, you can find her playing with her two cats, Ollivander and Nox. Having grown up in Kansas City (and with her entire family still living there) Megan still cheers for the Royals and Chiefs and will happily convert any willing participant to the joys of the best BBQ in the nation, KC BBQ. 😊

Megan states that "I believe God is calling me to a ministry that embraces everyone regardless of their disability, skin color, sexuality, or beliefs and invites those folk into conversations around formation and the mission of the community." One of Megan's biggest passions in ministry is meeting people where they are and helping them learn and grow in their faith. As a Type 1 Diabetic, she is an advocate for disability inclusion and will happily talk your ear off about disability theology anytime.
