LEGISLATIVE UPDATE:

Conferees continued to work on the budget this week.

The SUPPORT SHELLFISH AQUACULTURE bill, S-648, passed the House on Wednesday and was sent to the Governor.

We've heard that H-483, LET THEM SPAWN, will be heard by the House Rules Committee at some point. That's after we heard several weeks ago that the House Republicans discussed the bill and "there was no appetite" for moving the bill. In addition, the bill didn't make the crossover deadline and since it had no monetary component, it should be dead. But nothing is ever dead in the General Assembly! Combine this with the concern about what fish stuff may end up in the budget, and it makes for a very contentious time. The budget deliberations are currently in a conference committee which is closed to the public. I understand that Representative Larry Yarborough is attempting to insert a provision for the UNC Collaboratory to do a study on the seafood supply chain in North Carolina. Apparently, he has been convinced that the way our seafood is distributed needs to be improved. In other words, the government is going to suggest ways for the private market to distribute seafood.

I'm often asked what the state or federal governments can do to help fishermen. Outside of discussions regarding a disaster, my reply is: "Nothing! Fishermen just want to work!"

Think of the irony here. For the most part, over the many years I've been doing this, I've been trying to convince legislators that fishermen just want to work! Based upon how difficult it's been to get legislators to understand that, I guess that it's now considered to be un-American to want to work.

If you are involved in commercial fishing and have not taken any interest in the Third District Congressional race, shame on you! I've been listing events of candidates at various times in these updates. I've attended several but haven't noticed much participation from commercial fishermen. As noted at the end of this legislative update, there are several opportunities to attend a number of functions for Greg Murphy, Joan Perry or Allen Thomas. Please taken note and attend if you can.

UPDATE ON BILLS:

Rather than take up valuable space here, we're only listing those bills that are "active". If any action is taken on any of the bills we've listed previously, it will be so noted the week the action is taken.

H-169, the bill to make the Loggerhead Sea Turtle the state reptile passed the House and in Senate Rules. No action in the Senate this week.

H-483: LET THEM SPAWN

Voted favorably 11-3 in Wildlife Resources on April 16; now in Rules. Should be dead as it did not make it through the House before crossover. No action this week, but it appears the bill will be heard in Rules soon.

NCFA OPPOSES H-483

H-486 COMMERCIAL FISHING LICENSE REFORMS

This is similar to a bill filed last year, but it died in committee. This bill would eliminate the RCGL or recreational commercial gear license, would only allow one standard commercial license per person with person including corporation; doubles the license fees. We understand it was discussed in Republican caucus but unsure of status. No action this week.
