May 2018 Training Tip

Green Light Education
A new perspective

Say It ONCE!

Follow Dr. Rich Allen on Twitter: @drrichallen.com

As trainers, our voice is one of our most powerful tools for doing our job. The trick is to use this tool to maximum effect by adjusting the volume of your voice to match the moment. For example, set your voice to:

- High volume – to give directions (one at a time!)
- Medium volume, slow pace – to teach and explain concepts.
- Low volume – to work individually with a participant while other people are working quietly in the room.
- Stage whisper – to create a sense of drama and excitement.

Used consistently, the volume of our voice becomes a useful signal to participants about what sort of information we are delivering.

Resource of interest this month:

Training Resources For Modern Trainers In 2018 And Beyond: 70+ And Counting

https://elearningindustry.com/training-resources-for-modern-trainers-2018-beyond-70-counting

Want to keep reading and learning about great training and presenting practices? Check out this astonishingly comprehensive guide of resources. How many can you use?