

Manny Sardinha grew up in Point Loma and attended Francis Parker HS.

He attended Princeton University and then Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine, where he received the Gold Humanism Award for compassionate care and service. Some of his passions in Medicine include LGBT care and sports medicine. He enjoys playing soccer and beach volleyball.

Stephanie Christensen is from Encinitas, CA. She attended SDSU and lived in Bonita before medical school. She attended University of Arizona for medical school, where she earned a certificate for service and community health. She was her AMWA chapter president and did work on human trafficking education. Some of her interests within medicine include breast feeding and gender-affirming care.

Megan Lo grew up in Orange County, CA. She attended UCSD both for undergraduate and medical school. She was the UCSD Free Clinic, Urology Clinic Manager. Her interests within Family Medicine include women's health and integrative health.

Hannah Jagers grew up in Florida and Kentucky. She attended UNC Chapel Hill and then University of Louisville. She was the co-director of Compassion Clinic, a student run free clinic. She was recognized with both Gold Humanism and AOA. Her interests include geriatrics and global health.

Megan Cadigan is from New Mexico. She attended U of A for both college and medical school. She organized giving vaccines to migrant farm workers, was president of the Wilderness Medicine interest group and served as Sim lab coordinator. Her interests in Family Medicine are behavioral medicine and geriatrics.

Paul Kasrazadeh is from Folsom, CA. He attended UCSD as an undergrad and St. Louis University for medical school. He has volunteered in Honduras, Nicaragua and Guatemala. He hopes to practice full spectrum Family Medicine and loves to travel.