

Gender Wheel® Training Changing How We Think and Talk about Gender

PART 1 - REORIENTATION

First of a 3-Part series, this training highlights why a fundamental shift in how we think about gender is critical for us to move forward into a new world that supports, celebrates, and values everyone.

PART ONE is a vital first step for ALL regardless of your role or clientele. For those wanting the fullest immersion, taking all 3 parts is recommended.

Learning Objectives:

- Explain how the impact of historical suppression of individuals and of nature is reflected in our current understanding of gender and inequities.
- Differentiate between binary thinking and holistic thinking and how it affects language, perception, and overall well-being.
- Understand the key components of a nature-based approach to gender.
- Explain the main elements and concepts of the Gender Wheel.

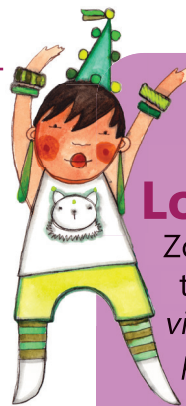

Maya Gonzalez is an award-winning children's book artist, author, and progressive educator with 30+ years of experience teaching, lecturing, and researching. She has developed multiple curriculums, cofounded the indie publishing house Reflection Press and created the Gender Wheel, a nature-based tool to understand the infinite nature of gender.
