

Navigating “It Depends...”

April 8, 2021, 1:00 – 2:30pm

Everyone loves flexibility, nuance, and individuality until it comes time to make a decision. Research administrators spend a lot of time navigating the gray, interpreting vague regulations, accommodating non-standard situations, and considering special requests for exceptions. In this webinar, we’re going to discuss strategies for coping with the vagaries of our profession. We’ll consider why different institutions establish different rules, why central offices sometimes make “inconsistent” decisions, and why project-specific needs often confound our best efforts to routinize. Registrants will be polled prior to the webinar to identify any specific issues that they would like to discuss.

Speakers:

Angela White-Jones

*Director, Master of Research Administration (MRA) Program and the Graduate Certificate in Research Administration Programs
University of Central Florida*

David Mayo

*Senior Director for Research Administration
California Institute of Technology
NCURA Distinguished Educator*

John Hanold

*Director, Sponsored Programs, Vice President for Research
The Pennsylvania State University*

If you want to watch the live webinar, please email me at andrea.marshall@austin.utexas.edu. I will send you a link that allows you to register for free under my registration.

You will need an NCURA username to register. If you are not an active NCURA member, you have the option to create a free Non-Member Account.

Please make sure your NCURA account uses a utexas.edu email address. NCURA will monitor all registrations under the OSP purchased webinar, and anyone with a non-UT email will have their registration removed.

If you are unable to watch the live webinar, the recorded session will be uploaded into MediaSite.