Latest Headlines

Disaster Recovery Centers Accessible to People with Disabilities

Disaster Recovery Centers are accessible to people with disabilities and those with access and functional needs.

- The centers have assistive technology equipment that allows survivors to interact with staff.
- Video Remote interpreting is available and in-person sign language available by request.
- Real-time captioning as well as information in Braille, large-print, audio and electronic versions are available.
- The centers also have accessible parking, ramps and restrooms.

FEMA Mitigation Funds To Help Rebuild Stronger

Homeowners who are eligible for Individuals and Households Program assistance may receive additional mitigation funds from FEMA to reduce damage losses. Specific mitigation measures may include:

- Roof repair to withstand higher winds and help prevent water infiltration.
- Elevating a water heater or furnace to avoid future flood damage.
- Elevating or moving an electrical panel to avoid future flood damage.

Additional Time To Renew Flood Insurance Policy

- Over 8,000 National Flood Insurance Program policyholders affected by Hurricane Ian in Florida may still be able to renew their policy due to the grace period extension. The renewal extension applies to people whose flood insurance policy expiration was between Aug. 25 and Oct. 23.
- NFIP has extended the grace period to renew policy from 30 days to 90 days for certain Florida policyholders in 26 counties where individual assistance has been authorized due to Hurricane Ian.

Protect Yourself From Identity Theft

If a FEMA inspector visits your home but you have not applied for FEMA assistance, or if you receive a letter from FEMA without submitting your FEMA application, you may be a victim of identity theft. If so, please inform the FEMA inspector or call FEMA Helpline at 800-621-3362 to stop the application process. If you suspect identity theft, please visit Identity Theft | FTC Consumer Information or IdentityTheft.gov.

Substantial Damage Determinations

Local community officials are required to inspect disaster-damaged structures in Special Flood Hazard Areas to meet the requirements of the Florida Building Code and the community's floodplain management regulations. If the cost of repairing the structure to its condition before Hurricane Ian is 50 percent or more of its pre-disaster market value, the house or building is considered "substantially damaged." FEMA does not make substantial damage determinations; the determination is made by a community's building official or floodplain manager. Repairing a structure in a floodplain requires a permit. Survivors have options to bring the structure into compliance with the Florida Building Code and the community's floodplain management regulations.

Temporary Housing for Survivors

FEMA is providing grants for basic repairs to homes damaged by the storm, rental assistance for those who can't remain in their homes and hotel stays for survivors who can't find a place to rent. This support is available in all 26 counties approved for FEMA Individual Assistance under the disaster declaration of Hurricane Ian.

Advance Payment in National Flooding Insurance Program

- Contact your flooding insurance agent or company to see if you can receive an advance payment to help jumpstart your recovery.
- Policyholders of National Flooding Insurance Program affected by Hurricane Ian may receive $5,000-$20,000 with documentation, before an adjuster visits.
- If you don't know who your insurance agent or company is, you may call 877-336-2627.
