Discussion with the sponsor is advised. 1/11/20 NLL This bill requires that a school district's levied sales surtax must be shared on a per-pupil basis with charter schools, which is in violation of the FPTA position statement on charter schools that such schools must not deplete funding from existing public schools. In addition, its provision that charter schools may contract directly with a Florida college to establish an early college program removes that decision from under the authority of the local school board, also in violation of our statement on charter schools. The extra allocation of mental health funding is welcome, although the additional reporting requirements may be burdensome to school districts. In addition, there is a reference to "involuntary examination" which should be fleshed out to guarantee parental involvement in any Baker Act commitment. The provision extending the life of the compression allocation will mean that larger, property-rich, districts will continue to subsidize smaller, poorer, districts. 1/11/20 NLL 1/13/20 DT reported favorably with wave in opposition from League of Women Voters. 1/28/20 NLL Pre Ed Approps analysis Delete all: this has just morphed into a train bill, as it now includes provisions allowing home school students to enroll in dual enrollment classes and establishes a dual enrollment scholarship program, and it blends in language regarding the teacher salary allocation. Amendments to the delete all: Pizzo 969850 = would substitute the Dem teacher salary proposal including all instructional personnel and percent increases for the Diaz base salary proposal--waive in support Stargel 449498: would allow districts to use impact fees for building construction without restriction Stargel 970912: would restrict sharing of funds with charter schools unless facilities were owned by a governmental entity, a state college or university, or a

It would place DCF under the DOE, and establish A-F grading for providers. It does specify ratios for caseworkers, psychologists, etc., but would require a tremendous appropriation to meet those targets. Lots of logistical questions from Dems. If Simpson were not President Elect, this bill would not have been heard. I did not waive in support--too many questionable provisions. NLL 1/28/20 at approp health human svcs committee, Harrell mentioned there will be a a strike all amendment filed before bill gets to next committee. She asked for more $ associated with bill. He also asked how funding this will be justified instead of increasing funds for services. Clarification given that bill will not increase FTE. The $ will find more qualified case reviewers. While it furthers the aims of our position statement on CTE by making career-related information available to students and guidance counselors and expanding CTE programs, it likewise contains provisions directly in opposition to our position statement on charter schools. More specifically, it allows for alternate charter authorizers--state colleges and universities--and removes oversight powers from school districts. It likewise specifies that charter schools sponsored by a state college or university will receive from the state the equivalent of a proportionate share of district per-pupil funding based on student population, meaning a potential reduction in state funds available for school districts. The bill does level the playing field between traditional public and charter schools with respect to SREF, since districts may construct schools solely in compliance with the Florida Building Code, provided that sufficient space is available for emergency shelter purposes. The bill would also allow charter schools to offer career and professional academies; however, school districts would not have oversight power over such academies if sponsored by an alternate charter school authorizer. Recommended: speak to the sponsor, who has another CTE-related bill that we supported, and waive in opposition. 2/3/20 DT - due to other conflicts, not able to speak to Hutson's office prior. Thank you to the sponsors and the chair for scheduling. It is heartening to know that this body recognizes the importance of early learning from 0 to 5 and it's tremendous return on investment. We appreciate its across the board, apples to apples, consensus among providers. This bill is in its first committee and a sit makes its way through the process we look forward on having further dialogue regarding the necessity of implemeting a robust Florida PTA Positions Readiness to Start School (1998) (2012) The Florida PTA urges the Legislature to ensure that early child care and education programs are safe, nurturing, and developmentally appropriate by establishing licensing requirements based on statewide standards that reflect current research. These programs should be affordable, available, and accessible with assistance for parents with inadequate income. The Florida PTA opposes using a standardized testing tool as the basis for major decisions regarding early childhood placement or progress, or to deny entry to public education. The Florida PTA urges its PTAs and county councils to work within their communities to make available to parents the materials, resources, and education needed to foster optimal early childhood development. Places the Gold Seal Quality Care Program in DOE and makes it's accreditation align with national best practices. The current DCF GSQC program operates more like OSHA for restaurants. I do not know if the current designation holds value for parents, since only 1,852 child care facilities possess it. It has more to do with the market rate rules for the school readiness program. This adds incentives to be accredited. The teacher ratio and group size requirements incentive is created.

It has several "poison pills." Amendment 618403 provides a recurring appropriation of $8 million, as suggested in staff analysis. Not a problem. Bill requires that through grade 6, the ELA and math assessments be administered on paper. It eliminates the Geometry EOC exam and phases out the Grade 9 ELA exam. Substitutes in 11th grade the SAT or ACT (district's choice) for ELA/Math high school assessment, subject to US DOE approval. SAT/ACT student performance would become part of the school grade. This would allow for cost reduction, since the DOE would no longer have to pay for development/implementation of eliminated assessments. It would also provide for apples-to-apples comparisons between Florida's students and those in other states, as the SAT and ACT are nationally norm-referenced exams. The setting of cut scores, however, would be crucial to the accountability system. Set them high, and more schools would be labeled as "low performing" and subject to turnaround and/or competition from Schools of Hope. Set them low, and Florida could have high school "grades" while ranking low in comparison to other states on student achievement. Of note as well: more colleges/universities are abandoning SAT/ACT as an admission requirement, in part because of these exams perceived cultural biases. Bill requires that previous science/social studies exams be posted online, echoing current requirements for math/ELA. This enhances transparency. VERY CONCERNING: Bill speeds up the timetable for implementing a school turnaround plan. It specifies that a school earning even one D (or F)
