

PARENT UNIVERSITY

Being a parent isn't easy - we understand.

We live in a culture that provides daily distractions, challenges, and yes, sometimes even dangers for our kids.

From the mundane to the scary - parents must navigate concepts they may not have previously considered: Social media and technology. Online predators. Human trafficking. Gender identity and sexual orientation. Pornography. Substance abuse. Racial tensions. The list goes on.

This generation of kids faces challenges unlike previous generations; they think, act, and engage like no other. Parents need resources, support, and opportunities to share and learn from experts and each other. We want to help.

Join us for a series of discussions on the topics impacting our students and how to address those issues. Our mission is to partner with you in providing biblically faithful, academically excellent education opportunities for your kids - and that includes tackling issues you're dealing with outside of school.
