HOW TO PLAY
FORBIDDEN WORDS

The object of the game:

Score the most points

You will need:

The cards from your purchase, printed and cut out
A timer
Optional: a way to indicate when a forbidden word has been said, such as a buzzer, air horn, or bell. Players can also simply make a noise or say "Forbidden!"

Set up:

Divide into two equal teams.
Place cards, timer, and buzzer (if using one) within reach of both teams.
Share the object of the game and the rules with all players.
Choose one team to go first, and one person from the team to be the first clue-giver. Teams and players will alternate turns so that everyone gets a turn.

Rules:

Clue-givers attempt to get their team to guess the word at the top of the card without using any of the forbidden words, which are the other words on the card. The forbidden words cannot be given as clues. Clue-givers are not allowed to make sound effects or gestures, and cannot say any form of any word on the card -- no variations, no abbreviations or shortened forms of the word, no words that include the word, and no past, present, or future tense. Clue-givers cannot spell, say "sounds like" or "rhymes with," or say "starts with."

Play:

Set a timer for 1 minute. (You can give each team 2 minutes if you want the game to be a little easier!)
Start the timer.
The clue-giver turns over one card and begins giving clues to get his/her team to guess the word at the top of the card. A player from the opposing team should also be looking at the card so that he/she can monitor for any forbidden words.
The clue-giver gives clues and his/her team makes guesses until the word is guessed or until time runs out. The opposing team does not guess during this time.
If the team guesses the word at the top of the card, the card is added to the team's point pile. The clue-giver's turn is now over, and the opposing team begins their turn.
If the clue-giver uses a forbidden word, the buzzer should be sounded immediately. The clue-giver's turn is now over, and the card is given to the opposing team to be added to their point pile.
If the word at the top is not guessed and time runs out, the card is placed in a discard pile and neither team receives a point for it. (You can also choose to add it to the opposing team's point pile.)
At the end of the game, teams score 1 point for each card in their point pile. The team with the most points wins!
