Old power vs. New Power, when power is used and when power is abused

Why do some leap ahead while others fall behind in our chaotic, connected age? For most of human history, the rules of power were clear: power was something to be seized and then jealously guarded. This “old power” was out of reach for the vast majority of people. But our ubiquitous connectivity makes possible a different kind of power. “New power” is made by many. It is open, participatory, and peer-driven. It works like a current, not like a currency- and it is most forceful when it surges. The battle between old and new power is determining who governs us, how we work, and even how we think and feel.
